Access Other Offices

Switch between your root account and any child office.

When you log in to BuildVision you always land in your root account. If you are a user of the parent organization and it has multiple offices, you can switch into any child office from your profile — and switch back at any time.

Step 1 — Open your profile

Click your avatar initials in the bottom-left corner of the sidebar. A panel slides out; select My Profile. Your root account — the organization you always log into first — is shown at the top under Root Account.

Step 2 — Switch into an office

Inside My Profile you'll see Root Account (your default) and Other Accounts (every child office you can access). Find the office you want and click the arrow on the right of that row — your active account switches immediately. Switch back the same way.

Step 3 — Find all offices via Settings

For a full list of all offices and subsidiaries, go to Settings !' Company. This view shows every office under your root account, including office type, number of users, timezone, and address. The arrow on each row logs you directly into that office.
